Do I need an import licence or do I need to provide any special documentation when ordering WHO International Standards for Antibiotics?

Answer:

Before you order WHO International Standards for Antibiotics, check if the authorities in the importing country require any special documentation and confirm that the product you wish to order can be legally imported. It is the responsibility of the customer to check that importing the product in question is permitted and if a special permit is required. All necessary documentation has to be provided with the order.
